M. PAINLEVE IS HONORED BY SHANGHAI OFFICIALS

Diplomatic, Naval And Military Authorities Hosts At Dinner

TO SPEAK TODAY

Ex-Premier Will Address Science Club At "Y" At 4 O'clock

DANCE FOLLOWS

More Chinese Authorities To Entertain Him At Tea-Dansent

A brilliant dinner party at which greetings were exchanged between the oldest Republic and the oldest nation of the world was held last night at the Naval Club in honor of M. Paul Painleve, former Premier of the French Republic. The hosts were Mr. Hsu Yuan, Special Commissioner of Foreign Affairs, General Ho Fung-ling, Acting Military Governor of Shanghai and Admiral K. K. Lang, commander-in-chief of the Chinese Navy.

The former French Premier make an eloquent address in which he paid a glowing tribute to the nation with the oldest civilisation while Commissioner Hsu also spoke feelingly in admiration of the spirit of the French.

Under the auspices of the Science Club, M. Painleve will speak at the Y.M.C.A. auditorium this afternoon at 4 o'clock. Immediately after the speech, a tea dance will be held at the Great Eastern Hotel. The hosts are Magistrate Shen Pao-chang of the Shanghai City, Magistrate Nieh Chung-hsi, Magistrate Chen Chi-zhou of the French Mixed Court and Messrs. S. K. Chen and N. T. Yang, secretaries of the Foreign Bureau.

Tonight, the French veteran statesman will be host himself to the local officials and prominent French residents here. The dinner will take place in the home of M. Lion where M. Painleve is staying.

Tomorrow at 5 o'clock, he will speak under the auspices of the Kiangsu Educational Association, the Vocational Educational Association and the New Educational Federation. The place is at the headquarters of the Kiangsu Educational Association. Following the speech there will be a reception. Principals and faculty of the local schools and their students are invited to attend. As M. Painleve is planning to leave here on Friday, this will be probably his last speech before leaving for France.

Last night's banquet was highly successful. The principal speeches were translated. The speech of the guest of honor was translated by Mr. Tchang Tse-yin, interpreter of the French Consulate-General and Mr. Hsu's address was interpreted by Mr. Tan Cho-an.

Commissioner Hsu after reviewing the brilliant record of the guest of honor as Premier of the French Republic and as a scientific expert expressed the hope that he would devote his efforts to promote some of the Chinese industrial schemes.

The commissioner recalled the events of March 1912 when China had just made a great stride in transforming herself from a monarchy into a democratic government. It was M. Painleve who first devised means of assisting the young Republic politically and educationally. It was he who established an organisation which enabled hundreds of Chinese young men to go over to France and complete their studies. Mr. Hsu also attributed to M. Painleve in a great measure the establishment of a Paris Chinese High School for the education of war laborers and the inauguration of a Chinese department in the Lyon University.

Mr. Hsu then likened the gathering of the Chinese and French guests as a picture of cordial friendship which was sure to be permanent. He trusted that the brotherhood between the two Republics will increase from day to day and that the guest of honor and the other French guests would uphold the principles of justice and international goodwill by assisting China's interests when the League of Nations is officially convocated.

Tuan's Brother-In-Law Sentenced To 15 Years' Imprisonment In Hupeh

Anfu Satellite Given Lengthy Jail Term By Court Martial For Attempting To Murder General Wang Chuan-yuan During Anfu-Chihli Conflict

Fifteen years' imprisonment was the sentence imposed on General Wu Kwan-hsin, the brother-in-law of Marshal Tuan Chi-jui and former Commander-in-chief of the Upper Yangtsze who was found guilty of attempting to murder Tuchun Wang Chuan-yuan of Hupeh.

Wu, it will be remembered, was seized by General Wang during the early stage of the Anfu-Chihli conflict while attempting to break into his yamen and was thrown into jail when arms, bombs and other explosives were found on him and his accomplices.

MILITARY TRIBUNAL

A military tribunal was organised to try him by order of the President and after numerous sessions, sentence was delivered on Sunday. Wu was sent immediately after the judgment to the military prison in Hupeh.

One of the most influential of the Anfu leaders on account of his relation with the marshal, Wu had enjoyed the most luxurious and comfortable life up to the time of his arrest. His appointment as Honan Tuchun was the initial cause of the historic move of General Wu Pei-fu in withdrawing his troops from Hunan. The Anfu general attempted to oust General Chao Ti of Honan with force of arms and the Hunan leader volunteered to aid Chao.

Wu was defeated in a minor skirmish with Wu Pei-fu's seasoned troops and fled to Hupeh. He intrigued with other Anfu warriors and planned the assassination of Tuchun Wang it was charged. An invitation was extended to Wang to attend a dinner, at which bombs were set to destroy him, witnesses said. Wang, however, did not attend and Wu's plans were frustrated.

MURDER PLOT CHARGED

Anxious to secure his post, Wu called on Wang in person with the hope of killing him, the testimony indicated. Wang ordered a search and bombs were found on the persons of the party.

Even after his arrest, Wu was given every consideration in view of his position. When brought before the court martial, he was allowed to sit and given all kinds of food and drinks he wanted.

Many rumors were current that he had been executed at the time of his trial, but Peking had instructed General Wang, it is understood, to spare his life and to give him a prison term in order to pave the way to amnesty.

ARABS UNITE TO ATTACK FRENCH AT DAMASCUS

Trains Held Up By Outlaw Tribesmen As Situation Grows More Grave

(Reuter's Service)

Alexandria, September 4.—Arab tribes in the Hauran have come to a mutual agreement to attack the French at Damascus.

It is stated that the French troops sent to the Hauran recently have been defeated and are now entrenching. There are about 12,000 troops at Damascus.

BRITISH OFFICER MURDERED

Bombay, September 4.—Capt. G. H. Salmon, South Devons, Assistant Political Officer at Kifri, North East of Bagdad, whom Arab tribesmen captured last week, has been murdered.

There is renewed anxiety regarding the fate of Captain Lloyd and Mrs. Buchanan, wife of the late Capt. Buchanan, whom the Arabs recently captured.

London, September 5.—A war office communique states:

An armored train and a train with refugees have been held up by Arabs at Istabulat, 50 miles northwest of Bagdad, as the railway has been cut in two places.

REINFORCEMENTS ON WAY

Strong resistance has been encountered from the insurgents who are entrenched in broken ground and slight casualties have been suffered. A repair train with troops is proceeding to Istabulat to extricate the isolated trains, and aeroplanes are co-operating.

A column has entered Kirri, encountering slight opposition. The town of Samarra is quiet. The insurgents who had invested it are reported to have retired.

Koreans Treated As Dogs, Charge Of Congressman

Reports of acts of repression of Japanese officials in Korea while the American congressional party was passing through that country, and particularly of the incident at the Seoul Y.M.C.A. in which Japanese police put a stop to a meeting that was being addressed by Congressman H. S. Hersman of California, are confirmed in letters received by Shanghai firms from representatives who were in Korea at the time the visiting legislators were there.

These letters say that Congressman Hersman made vigorous protest after the Japanese police had broken up the Y.M.C.A. meeting on August 25. The congressman is said to have told a representative of the governor-general that the Koreans "are being treated like dogs."

Accompanying one letter that has reached Shanghai was a copy of a Korean paper printed in Seoul that published in English a welcome to the visitors when they arrived. For publishing this welcome, which is given below, the editor of the paper was arrested, but was subsequently released when the Japanese officials learned that copies of the paper had reached the hands of the American visitors.

The article for publication of which the editor was arrested is as follows:

LABOR MINISTER TO INVESTIGATE STRIKE DEMANDS

Resumption Of Work Urged On Strikers By Member Of Cabinet

ATTACKS "OPEN SHOP"

Head Of American Federation Declares Employers Seek To Destroy Unions

(Reuter's Service)

London, September 5.—With regard to the electrical trades lockout, the Minister of Labor issued a statement this evening that as the negotiations which had continued since September 3 had failed to end the dispute, he has decided, in view of the public anxiety regarding the matter and the desirability to furnish the public with an impartial statement on the question, to appoint, under the Industrial Courts Act, 1919, a court of inquiry to investigate the causes and circumstances of the dispute.

The Minister has suggested to both parties, pending the report of the Court of Inquiry, resumption of work by the strikers and suspension of the lockout notices by the employers.

READY TO MEDIATE

London, September 4.—The Sunday Times publishes an interview with Mr. Robert Smillie, the Miners' leader, expressing willingness to accept mediation by an impartial Board, on the principle that wages granted should be commensurate with the real increase in the cost of living and that a reduction in the cost of living should preferably be brought about by a diminution in the price of coal.

Sir Robert Horne, President of the Board of Trade, welcomes Mr. Smillie's statement, which he hopes may lead to a settlement.

London, September 6.—The anxiously awaited Trade Union Congress, which it is hoped will avert the threatened coal strike by securing mediation between the miners and the Government opened at Portsmouth today in the presence of over 950 delegates.

SERIOUS SITUATION

Mr. J. H. Thomas, who delivered the presidential address, said that, looking at the position at home and abroad, he would indeed be an optimist who could find occasion for anything but apprehension.

Mr. Thomas went on to justify the formation of the Labor Council of Action. He declared that the Council was determined to see that the object for which it had been erected, namely complete independence of Poland and peace with Russia, was carried out and having done that, it would be content with the result of its labors.

GENERAL MOVEMENT

Mr. Thomas said he did not believe that workers were anxious to fight against the consolidation of capitalist interests merely for the sake of fighting, but the other side must clearly understand that the years' sacrifice which had placed the worker in the position he held today must not be lost, and that they would be prepared, not as a section but as a movement, to accept any challenge to their industrial freedom or economic emancipation.

Referring to Ireland, Mr. Thomas said: "The position in Ireland today is dangerous. Sooner or later, it cannot fail to result in open conflict, the effects of which would shake the very foundations of the Empire. The Irish people can still be made the friends of England.

"Let the Government drop the present Bill and cement that friendship with a bold, clear recognition of Dominion Home Rule. Let the Government realise that militarism in Ireland has failed as it was bound to fail. You cannot dragoon a nation by the sword."

GOMPERS' ATTITUDE

Washington, September 2 (delayed).—Mr. Samuel Gompers has issued a statement attacking the "open shop" platform which the United States Chamber of Commerce has adopted after a referendum.

Mr. Gompers characterises the platform as "a dishonest document," designed to create an impression of fairness but calculated to banish the Unions.

GERMAN SITUATION

Berlin, September 4.—The so-called Solisation committee has concluded its deliberations on the question of socialising the coal mines. The opinion of the commission is divided, one party favoring immediate and complete socialisation while the other proposes gradual socialisation, with

Lithuanians In Attack On Poles After Crossing Lord Curzon's Frontier

Warsaw Silent As To Outcome Of Clash While Balfour Seeks Funds To Check Epidemic Of Typhus In War Zone

(Reuter's Service)

London, September 5.—The Poles at length admit that they are having trouble with Lithuania. A communique issued in Warsaw yesterday says:

Lithuanian detachments crossed the frontier laid down by Lord Curzon and attacked the Polish cavalry.

The communique remains silent regarding the outcome of the fighting.

London, September 5.—According to a Warsaw telegram, it is announced that the negotiations regarding the frontier and future relations between Poland and Lithuania have been broken off and the Polish delegates are returning to Warsaw.

The Supreme Council has informed the Lithuanians that it proposes a new line of demarcation running through Margrabovo, Augustovo and Szugzyn.

It is understood that the Lithuanians place responsibility for hostilities upon the Poles, contending that the Lithuanians were compelled to defend themselves. On the contrary the Poles claim that the Lithuanians fired first.

REPORTS CONFLICT

London, September 4.—The Polish-Lithuanian situation is very confusing. Berlin persists in announcing fighting and publishes a Lithuanian semi-official communique, declaring that the Lithuanians have succeeded in driving back the Poles a distance of 25 to 50 versts along the entire Grodno-Suwalki front. The communique gives the names of various places captured.

London, September 4.—Owing to the danger of the typhus epidemic in Poland and Galicia becoming an international menace, Mr. Balfour, on behalf of the League of Nations Council, has appealed to various Governments for the immediate provision of £250,000 out of the £10,000,000 required for combatting the menace.

It is emphasised that the recent military events have made the need for relief more urgent.

Berlin, September 4.—The Vossische Zeitung reports that a British steamer bound from France to Danzig was refused passage through the Kiel Canal on the ground that she was carrying a thousand tons of munitions for Poland.

GERMAN HORDE OF ARMS FOUND BY KATTOWITZ POLICE

(Reuter's Service)

Warsaw, September 4.—It is reported that an Allied search at the German prefecture of police at Kattowitz has resulted in the discovery of a considerable secret store of arms and ammunition and confidential documents. A search at the headquarters of the German "militants" likewise led to a find of "astounding" documents.

Sinn Feiners Masquerade As Soldiers And Drive Police From Barracks

(Reuter's Service)

Lucerne, September 5.—Mr. Lloyd George replying to the request of Mayor Hylan, of New York, to release the Lord Mayor of Cork states politely, but firmly, that he cannot interefere with the course of justice and the law.

London, September 5.—The condition of the Lord Mayor of Cork is unchanged this evening.

London, September 5.—An official report from Dublin announces a new Sinn Fein ruse. Sinn Feiners wearing military uniforms, appeared at the police barracks at Belleek, County Fermanagh, entered the building unopposed, whipped out revolvers and overawed the garrison whom they locked up in an outhouse.

Others meanwhile locked the doors of the church where the remainder of the garrison were attending mass.

The raiders subsequently drove off in motor cars with all the arms and equipment they could seize from the barracks.

Suggests Election Of Fifteen Representatives From Provincial Assembly, Chamber Of Commerce And Other Bodies Of Each Province

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, September 6.—As a first step towards the convocation of a People's Convention, two political parties in Peking have suggested the formation of a "Convention for the Unification of China," to consist of 15 representatives of each province, who would be drawn from the Provincial Assemblies, Chamber of Commerce and other important bodies representing the people.

It is not clear whether this Convention is intended to supersede the Peace Conference at Shanghai, or to act in a preliminary capacity.

Harvest Abundant In Manchuria Provinces According To Latest Reports

(Staff Wire To The China Press)

Peking, September 7.—Eye witnesses' reports received by the United States Legation here indicated that 20,000,000 people are starving in Chihli, Honan, and Shantung.

MANCHURIA PROSPEROUS

There is however adequate supply from the Manchurian provinces, where the harvest has been abundant provided the transportation, distribution and organisation of the cereals are forth-coming.

The present relief measures are confined to the local authorities. The Central Government has taken no steps to cope with the famine.

Leaders of the foreign community in Peking are discussing the formation of an international relief society for the purpose of making a world wide appeal for funds and for the organisations of the railway, river and highway transportation and the appointment of an international distributing committee.

MUST MOVE PROMPTLY

The famine situation is regarded as redeemable provided prompt steps are taken.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, September 7.—In view of the famine situation in North China, it is pointed out that Manchuria has surplus grain, which could be made available for the starving millions, were relief work taken in hand competently.

The recent report that Chow Tze-chi and Yeh Kung-chow, Minister of Communications, intend to resign is contradicted. The report is ascribed to Anfu propaganda, which is still active in Peking.

According to reports from government sources, Waichow is well defended, while Chen's men are stated to have been defeated near Lolung on August 29.

The government troops on the West River have been transferred to the East River.

RUSSIANS TO PEKING

Peking, September 7.—How Heng-chen, Chinese Consul-General at Vladivostok will arrive in Peking in a few days. His visit is connected with the arrival in Peking of the two Russian delegations from Siberia.

VIEWS SET FORTH

Views of General Tang Chi-yao of Yunnan and General Liu Hsiang-se of Kweichow on the present political situation were set forth in a circular telegram to the South and North Governments, the military and civil governors and the provincial assemblies on September 3. The text of the telegram was yesterday released by the Intelligence Bureau of the Constitutional Government of China for publication.

The text follows:

"It has been three years since the Southwest undertook to defend the law, and two years since the cessation of arms and the negotiation of peace. But owing to the difficulties in arriving at a proper settlement of the questions of law and diplomacy, the Peace Conference has been interrupted and the political situation become more tumultuous.

"It is our primary object as well as the duty of every citizen to defend the laws and national rights of the country. But, notwithstanding the rightfulness of our object, the mutilation of political conditions has rendered it more difficult to distinguish right from wrong. This not only prevents us from making known our object, but creates a chance in favor of those who have no regard to the welfare of the people to carry out their selfish purposes, which tend to make the future of our country the more dangerous and incapable of salvation.

"In pursuance of our object we take this opportunity of declaring our views to our fellow citizens as follows:

PEACE TERMS

(A) Regarding the settlement of political troubles: (1) The peace terms between the South and the North should be settled by the proper Peace Conference. (2) The questions of law and diplomacy being fundamental questions of the country ought to be properly settled.

(B) Regarding the political reform as a radical method of national salvation:

(1) The tuchun system and other military offices of special and bi-engaged nature should be abolished, and only commanders of divisions, brigadier generals and the like, as commanding officers of the military force be appointed under the control of the minister of war for the sole purpose of military service and national safeguard.

(2) The military force of the whole nation should be classified into so many divisions and brigades in accordance with the requirement of national safeguard and the condition of finance, and a military committee should be specially formed to draw and execute the plan of disbanding all unnecessary soldiers.

DEMAND DEMOCRACY

(3) The enforcement of democratic principles. Before the establishment of the constitution, preparations should be made for the formation of municipalities of different grades, and due regard must be had to the popular equality and liberty of the citizens.

"Above are the views we have decided to adhere to. It is our hope to have the co-operation of our fellow citizens and friends who hold the same views as ours, regardless of any territorial or party difference.

C. T. WANG NAMED CHINESE ENVOY TO COPENHAGEN

Dr. Koo And Mr. Sze Exchange Their Present Posts

(Staff Wire To The China Press)

Peking, September 7.—Dr. V. K. Wellington Koo is today transferred to London to become Minister to the Court of St. James, while the former Chinese Minister there, Mr. Alfred Sze succeeds him at Washington.

Dr. C. T. Wang, China's envoy at Versailles, is appointed Chinese Minister to Copenhagen and will serve together with Dr. Koo on the Chinese delegation to the League of Nations.

The appointment of Dr. Wang as Minister to Copenhagen was forecasted in the columns of THE CHINA PRESS recently. However, Dr. Wang himself received no offer from Government before the appointment. It was only a few minutes before the foregoing wire reached THE CHINA PRESS that Dr. Wang denied any knowledge of the appointment by telling the following anecdote when he was actually asked whether there is any truth in the report of his appointment:

"When General Yin Chang, the Manchu Minister to Berlin, was greeted by the former Kaiser and congratulated on being appointed Minister of War General Yin said: "Yes, the newspapers have appointed me four times already."

This, Dr. Wang contended, served to answer the question in his case too.—Editor's Note.

Nippon Christian Leader Coming To Study Conditions

Subscriptions Sought For Shanghai's War Memorial

Progress in connection with Shanghai War Memorial has been somewhat delayed in consequence of dimculty in obtaining estimates of cost. It will be remembered that in May the committee selected a design submitted by Messrs. Stewardson and Spence, and instructed the architects to prepare complete estimates for the granite and bronze work. The architects are still awaiting a reply to their inquiry as to cost of the top statuary group and flanking features in bronze—the most important item—the cost of which, pending cabled advice, they estimate at Tls. 30,000.

This brings the total estimated cost of the memorial of Tls. 55,000, of which has now to be added about Tls. 8,000 for necessary improvements to the site. Such improvement the architects considered indispensable to the success of the scheme, and their suggestions have received unanimous approval by the committee. The nature of the proposed alterations to the Bund site at the end of Avenue Edward VII is explained in the plan reproduced on the accompanying illustration.

OUTLINE OF PLAN

The site at present is undoubtedly cramped for such a monument, which must depend largely upon spacious surroundings for dignity of effect. The recent Bund Extension, has as the accompanying plan shows, terminated at the limits of the International Settlement, in a curve sweeping back to the former Bund line, thus making a broken water front at the point where the memorial is to be placed. Moreover it will be seen that it is a practical impossibility at present to obtain any parallel system between Bund front and pavement curb, or any properly axial placing of the memorial relative to Bund front, pavement, and adjoining Streets.

It is considered important that the memorial should be placed to show to advantage from the River as well as from the land side, and it is therefore suggested that a vast improvement would be affected in the site, if the Bund frontage were extended as shown by the dotted line on the plan, which would permit of a parallel treatment of Bund, memorial, and pavement. This would also give a spaciousness about the base, and it in intended that the plinth of the balustraded enclosure should strike up in a strong vertical bastion from the sloping bund-face, to further emphasise the memorial from the River.

The cost of this Bund Extension is estimated by the Public Works Department to be about Tls. 8,000.

At its meeting held last week, the committee decided to begin the collection of public subscriptions, and appointed Mr. H. L. Pearce secretary of the committee, to act as treasurer. The Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation has kindly undertaken to receive subscriptions direct.

Labor Agitators Worry Australia And States

Seattle, August 16. (By mail).—Australia and America have much in common and one feature of their common woes is labor agitation by radical leaders, according to Col. James Burns, K.C.M.G., who arrived in Seattle on the Katori Maru on a visit to the Pacific Coast. Col. Burns is the head of the large Australian shipping firm of Burns, Philip and Co., and is a director of 20 Australian companies and commercial institutions. Col. Burns said that Australia is beginning to recover from the effects of the war, but that conditions are far from having resumed their normal aspect.

At a meeting of shipping men and port officials of the ports of Seattle, Portland, Tacoma and San Francisco, held at Tacoma, a resolution was unanimously adopted favoring the indefinite suspension of Section 28 of the new shipping bill, and with the further provision that at any time the Shipping Board deems it fit to put it in operation that at least six months notice be given. Section 28 is the clause giving preferential freight rates on railways for freight to be carried in American ships.

Interest in Clause 28 of the merchant marine bill is still a lively subject of discussion in shipping circles on Puget Sound. A. Melville Dollar, president of the Canadian Robert Dollar Company, is quoted as saying that the reduction of freight rates by British and Japanese shipping interests is a retaliatory blow at the Jones bill.

LUMBER SHIPMENTS

Cargo shipments of lumber from Washington by water during the first six months of 1920 totaled 449,469,828 feet, compared with 321,760,750 feet during the same period of 1919, an increase of 127,709,078 feet. Of these, 310,285,524 feet were for foreign countries.

Contracts for $25,000,000 worth of railroad supplies and electrical mining machinery are to be let by the Japanese government in connection with the standardisation of the track gauge of the Imperial government railroad between Kobe and Tokio. Jose Starr, a representative of the line, said on his arrival here yesterday. Starr declared he came to the United States to let contracts for some of the materials.

The Pacific Steamship Company's steamship Cross Keys, which arrived here August 8 from Dairen, Singapore and Hongkong, had on board 36,000 bags of maize, beans, wheat beancake and buckwheat also 10,000 cases of oil, and 1,066 tons of bean oil in bulk, loaded at Dairen. In addition, the Cross Keys brought 336 cases of rubber, 216 slabs of tin and 377 bundles of rattan from Singapore and 1,000 packages of rattan and seagrass furniture, and 10,000 rolls of matting from Hongkong.

FAR EAST WHEAT

Two export mills on the Pacific Coast have just received Chinese and Manchurian wheat, and this is said to be the first shipment of the Manchurian grain shipped here in twenty years. The result of this Manchurian importation is being closely watched, for the shipment came in at lower prices than local wheat. The Manchurian wheat came in with a freight rate of $3 and $4 a ton on it and was sold at 10 cents a bushel under the asking price on club varieties here. This price includes a duty of ten cents a bushel.

Seattle will be a regular port of call for the Java-China-Japan line of steamships operating from European ports through the Panama canal to the principal ports of Java and the Orient. The second steamer is booked for Seattle to sail about September 14, and already more than 600 tons of freight have been booked. More than a thousand tons are expected to be booked before the sailing.

The steamship West Jena, which has been repairing here is loading cargo for the Orient and will sail August 18.

TRADE INCREASE

Having completed loading a full cargo of general freight at Seattle and Tacoma for the Orient the Admiral Line steamship Iconium sailed Saturday afternoon for Yokohama, Hongkong and other Far Eastern ports. The Cross Keys in the same service, will leave Seattle for the Orient, August 19.

G. Giraud, commercial attache for French Indo-China in the United States, who arrived in Seattle Friday, sees much greater trade between Puget Sound and French Indo-China, he said at the foreign trade bureau of the Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Giraud arrived from San Francisco and while in Seattle he will confer with importers and exporters in an endeavor to foster the growing commerce. Mr. Giraud will be the guest of Marcel R. Daly, vice consul in Seattle and the foreign trade bureau of the Chamber of Commerce.

Brigands Ravaging Towns In Manchuria

People Of Whole Districts Forced To Meet Demands Of Robbers

Chinese brigands are ravaging wide areas in Manchuria and are extorting money from whole districts, according to letters that have been received here from travelers representing Shanghai firms.

One writer describing conditions near the little town of Emienpo says that large bands of brigands are established only five miles from the place and recently had levied a contribution upon the people of the community, threatening to burn the town if the demands were not met in three days' time. These bandits lately burned up a large store of cord wood belonging to a Mr. Kawalskie who had refused to made a payment that had been demanded.

Another incident described was a demand made upon a Mr. Yeranofsky for $800 cash by the robbers. He was told that if the payment was not made a honey factory that he owns would be destroyed.

The people of Emienpo are reported to be arming themselves to resist any invasion of the brigands, as no confidence whatever is placed in the Chinese soldiery.

present retention of private capital.

The Commission is unanimously of opinion that a far-reaching elimination of capitalistic profits from coal mining is requisite. The Majority Report recommends the formation of an Imperial Coal Council, which would hand over all profits to the State and fix prices, the Council to include representatives of officials, miners and the consumer.

London, September 6.—The Times' Washington correspondent telegraphs:

"Hopes are entertained that the unauthorised anthracite coal miners strike at Wilkes-sarre, Penn., will end during the present week.

The men are reported to be ready to follow the advice of the Union leaders who did not sanction the strike.

The American Federation of Labor announces that any subsidiary organisation joining an unauthorised strike will be struck off its lists."

JAPANESE HUNT EUROPE MARKET FOR COTTON CROP

East Indian Accumulation In Islands Markets Cause Of Serious Embarassment

(Reuter's Service)

New York, August 6 (by mail).—According to advices received here the embarrassing accumulation of East Indian cotton in Japan is causing the Japanese importers to hunt a market in Europe for some of the cotton.

The decline in India prices since the purchase of the cotton by Japan, however, has made this a difficult matter, as it is said India is able to undersell the Japanese merchant unless he is willing to accept a loss.

In this connection, it is interesting to note that Central European countries have been in conference at the Hague over the possibility of rehabilitating the Continental textile industries, and it is believed that with the assistance of American financiers, arrangements will be made for Central Europe to resume buying raw material.

CO-OPERATIVE MARKETING

New York, August 6 (by mail).—Cotton planters of Oklahoma are said to be working out a plan for the co-operative marketing of 300,000 or more bales of cotton grown in Oklahoma during the season of 1921.

The Oklahoma State organisation will hold contracts for the handling, grading and marketing of between 200,000 and 300,000 bales under the agreement and will be able to sell direct to the spinners of America and Europe.

BANKERS TAKE HAND

Memphis, Tenn., August 6 (by mail).—Leading bankers here are hoping to effect an arrangement with the Federal Reserve System which provides that banks in a district will be able to make loans on cotton and other agricultural crops and that the money used for this purpose will not be counted against the credit of the member banks with the Federal Reserve Bank.

The arrangement will include a further provision that loans will be made on agricultural crops at interest of six percent over a period running, in some instances, as long as six months.

FOREIGNERS GIVEN JAPANESE ABUSE ON CHINESE SOIL

Americans and other nationals no longer are immune from the aggressive activities of Japanese officials in Manchuria, according to an incident described in a protest made to the American Legation at Peking by an American citizen whose name is withheld as he is remaining in Manchurian territory.

A copy of the protest to the Legation was received here yesterday; here it is:

"Changchun, August 28.

"American Legation, Peking, China.—The writer arrived on the 7:40 train this morning at Changchun, and was requested by two Japanese Police Officers on the train to show my passport. I refused—after getting off the train one of the policeman came up—shouted at me in a loud voice—caught hold of my arm and tried to force me to go to the police station, when he attempted to draw his saber, I placed my hand on the handle of my revolver, then I was surrounded by six policemen and forced to go to the Japanese Consulate where I strongly protested at my treatment—but could not get any satisfaction.

"American citizens were informed at the conclusion of peace that the regulations made by the Legations at Peking during war time, i.e., showing passports to Japanese police officials in China, had been abolished.

"Kindly inform me if American citizens are compelled to show their passports to Japanese police officials in China.

"Kindly protest against the rough treatment accorded me and my arrest by the Japanese at Changchun."

welcome to the congressmen who are just entering our land, coming as they do from a great country, a country that Nature has endowed with the awe-inspiring Rockies, with mighty rivers and opulant prairies; a country that has produced men like Lincoln and Washington; a country that has for its foundation liberty of conscience for all its people; a country which is in the vanguard of humanity as regards freedom and justice.

When it was whispered that the party was coming there were many hearts that leaped with joy and gladness and we are among those who have been counting the days until their arrival, like children waiting the return of their mother, impatient as one who waits for his beloved.

We have no bouquets in our hands nor honied words upon our tongues. How then are we to manifest our gladness? Shall it be by a handshake or by the kiss of Bible times? Neither, but rather by the simple overflowing of the heart with gladness.

REFUGE FOR OPPRESSED

In welcoming our brothers from over the sea we cannot dispel the feeling that comes over us when we recall the fact that America has ever been from its earliest days a refuge for the oppressed. How many have escaped from Europe to find freedom of conscience in the vastness of her great domain, and relief from oppression among a great people! This is why America has been loved and respected by the troubled and the tyrannised. This has not only been found to be true in the past, but it is even more so now, because the people, the world over, who are groaning under violence and oppression are looking to America for succor. America is their cynosure and their hope. We who bear upon our back a sad history and carry in our embrace an unsatisfying present find ourselves overwhelmed with our feelings as we meet you.

FRIENDLY TREATY

Looking back we find that this great republic which you represent is not only joined with us in a treaty of friendship inspired by the spirit of peace and of freedom but its great people spared neither their money nor their efforts in order to send us the Gospel of Life and to provide us with schools and with hospitals. The twenty million Koreans, who had lost through despotism and class distinction the opportunity of development, have received the Light and found the eternal value of life. Is there a hope for Korea? It is through the lonely Son of Man that we have it, and we wish to express our thanks to the people whom you represent.

You have not only honor and distinction of having awakened Japan from her peaceful slumber of isolation and of introducing her to modern civilisation, but you have also brought to us the enlightenment of life. We are not a people that is wholly Christianised and a society complete in itself, and we are filled with remorse and shame, but nevertheless we welcome you as brothers from a land where our esteem has found its way even through the wide expanse of the mist and waters of the Pacific.

Brothers we call you, not because our earthly circumstances match yours, but because we are such before God, who is no respector of persons. To be brothers before God means to have the same ideals and aims in life.

DEMOCRACY IS AIM

What is it that you see in Korea? Dingy houses, unsightly streets, rough roads and denuded hills. By these you can know the oppression of the past and the crampedness of the present. These are the things that may be seen by the physical eyes, but the hopes and the endeavors of the twenty million souls can be discerned only through the mental eyes.

What is uppermost in the mind of the Korean people and what they are ready to make sacrifice for is the principle of democracy. It is realised that to change the barren hills to a verdant paradise, to transform unbeautiful society to one of liberty, pride, love and intelligence, to bring out man's faith in God and to make man's life worthy of man there is nothing else but the spirit of Democracy. It is fundamental that vegetation requires rain and dew for its growth and man requires freedom for his development. This is what you and your forefathers have already known and what the experience of your nation has taught. Though our circumstances are poor and lowly, we realise that through truth and endeavor and the spirit of democracy man can achieve emancipation and individual liberty which in turn will usher in other blessings and give glory to God. These things constitute the faith and hope of the Koreans. The dreary and desolate surface contains a life that is throbbing and active.

HOPE OF NATION

Our hope is that you, our brothers, will carry our hopes to those in your home land so that they may rejoice and labor with us in and for the common object. Though the great ocean separates us geographically there can be nothing which can separate us in our love and common ideals. In conclusion we wish you and your people in the years to come greater prosperity and God's richest blessing.

SHARPE'S SYSTEM AT YALE SUCCEEDS

Year's Sports Statistics At University Prove His Contention Correct

New Haven, Conn., July 3.—Under the new system of universal athletics introduced at Yale last year by Lr. Al. Sharpe, it was decided not to order compulsory participation in sports. Dr. Sharpe insisted that the individual could be made to see the value of regular exercise, and that compulsion was unnecessary.

He says now that he feels that statistics compiled for the year justified his policy. They prove that out of 2,395 undergraduates more than 1,700 have taken part in some organised form of athletics. In addition several hundred take regular exercise, such as gymnastics, tennis, golf or systematic walking and riding in the reserve officers' training corps. Altogether it is improbable that more than 200 or 300 undergraduates have gone without regular recreational sport during the last year.

The report shows that more than 800 took part in Spring sports of whom baseball enlisted 225. Thirty composed the 'Varsity squad, 30 the freshman, while about 160 played in the class league. The track squad numbered about 225, including 'Varsity and freshman. More than 200 took part in rowing, 120 being recorded on class crews, 30 on the 'Varsity squad and 80 with the freshman. During the Fall more than 250 took part in football, and in the Winter 100 reported for swimming, including the 'Varsity, the freshman and a class league, while 150 played basket ball including the 'Varsity, freshman and class league.

For the first time, boxing was inaugurated and a squad of 75 was enrolled. Hockey and wrestling had about fifty candidates. This is less than half the usual number enrolled in hockey, but last season the sport was handicapped by the lack of artificial ice. More than 100 undergraduates played squash or handball or fenced.

New York Winner Over Philadelphia In Cricket Match

New York, July 25.—Dismissing the eleven of the Philadelphia Cricket Club for 35, the smallest total in any of the Halifax Cup games this season, the New York Cricket team scored a total of 172 and thereby notched another victory in the inter-city series, incidentally securing second place.

The outstanding features of the match were the batting of J. L. Poyer, of the Brooklyn Cricket Club, who with finely played 47 again headed the New York batsmen and the batting and bowling of L. R. Miller, who played a not out innings of 24 and also took five Philadelphia wickets for 18 runs. F. C. Taylor, of New York, likewise was most effective with the ball, being credited with four wickets for 53 runs.

Jones Turns In 69 On Memphis Links

Breaks Course Record In Qualifying Round Of Western Golf Title Tourney

Memphis, Tenn., July 12.—Bobby Jones of Atlanta, Southern champion, set a new record for the Memphis Country Club course by completing the opening eighteen-hole round in the qualification test of the twenty-second amateur championship tournament of the Western Golf Association in 69. The former record for the course, made by Walter Sherwood, a professional, was 70. The amateur record was 71, made by Martin Condon of Memphis.

Jones, paired with James Ward of Kansas City, took 34 to negotiate the first nine holes. After the turn his playing was equally sensational—par golf for the entire nine giving him the record score.

Other scores turned in this afternoon included: Clarence Wolff, St. Louis, 75; Ed. Limberg, St. Louis, 78; George McConnell, Chicago, 80; P. E. Knepper, Sioux City, 85; Baxter Sparks, Terre Haute, 88; L. E. Cornelius, St. Louis, 88; Rial Rolfe, Chicago, 88; A. W. Baum, Chicago, 89, and Roger Smith, Nashville, 92.

Chick Evans, former national champion, off the course on several of his tee shots, turned with a 35. He made some remarkable recoveries, at one time running down a fifty-foot mashie out of the rough and again holing a twelve-foot putt.

There are 162 players, including half a dozen sectional champions, representing more than a score of western and southern clubs, included among the entries. The second eighteen holes in the elimination round will be played tomorrow and match play will begin Wednesday.

Seven State and sectional associations have entered teams in the Olympic Cup contest.

Brazilians Not Keen On Baseball Game

Rio de Janeiro, July 6.—Baseball teams composed of North Americans in Rio de Janeiro and Sao Paulo recently played a three-game series for the championship of Brazil. Each team had won one game and the deciding contest was played here on July 4 as the feature of the North Americans celebration of Independence Day.

Brazilians have virtually no interest in baseball. The only games played are between North American teams here and in Sao Paulo except when a United States battleship is in port.

Ancient Village Lifts Ban On Cigarettes

Chicago, July 24.—Downer's Grove, the oldest village in Illinois, situated a few miles outside Chicago, voted today on the question whether cigarettes are a menace to the community or merely instruments for the early removal of the wicked from this vale of tears. The voters repealed the ordinance passed last June which prohibited the sale of cigarettes.

Out of a population of a trifle over 2,000,503 cast their ballots against the ordinance, which was double the vote in favor of up-holding the ordinance. One hundred and eighty-eight women voted on the proposition, and their vote was 94 for and 94 against.

County Cricket

(Reuter's Service)

London, September 4.—Yorkshire beat the M. C. C. by nine wickets.

The South of England beat the North of England by 52 runs.

AFTERWARD

In their time they knew the cheers and applause of the multitude, the acclaim that belongs with the olive wreath.

But afterward!

Jeffries is a respected California farmer—but a forgotten ghost of glory. Willard is out of the limelight—beaten, with practically no one to mourn his passing.

And Jack Johnson arrived with a sheriff in tow—or rather a sheriff arrived with Jack Johnson in tow.

Sic transit gloria—as the slang phrase goes.

The laurel today—but tomorrow the jimson weed or the wild raspberry. It's a great life if you don't mind the soapy chute.

SURVIVAL of the fittest, is the ancient law throughout the world. And nothing succeeds like success. No doubt you are anxious to be successful in your export business, especially in your Musk business—an article in which all the human senses are brought into play when testing, therefore can you afford to buy any kind of Musk? Because others have been buying adulterated Musk for years, there is no reason why you should. Send $300 through the Chinese Post Office to MR. ELLY WIDLER, TA TSINGLU, SZECHUEN PROVINCE and he will mail you a sample of one pound of WIDLER'S MUSK, the Musk you will eventually buy. Forget all the other trade names by which Musk is known. Tel. Gladiator Wins By Length In Knickerbocker Handicap

New York, July 24.—Gladiator, the big striding son of Superman, made quite a number of folks happy at Empire City course when he shot past the vigilant judges conquerer in the Knickerbocker Handicap. When the big colt toddled back to the scales there was a thunder of applause which took on the atmosphere of a Man o' War victory. It was however, a real tribute to a good hoss that is becoming one of the genuine public favorites.

Gladiator carried the package of 116 pounds and was compelled to give away fair allowances to his trio of rivals. He did the self-same thing and won in a commanding fashion. The race was run just as the storm was getting ready to break over the track. And as the horses trotted to the post rumbles of thunder kept getting noisier and noisier and a few flashes of lightning made the folks in crash makeups tremble for the fate of their scenery.

TWO ADDED STARTERS

Only two original starters answered the call but Lunetta and King Albert were added. Lunetta tried to upset the hopes of the majority by taking a few wicked swipes with her ironshod hoofs at Gladiator. The odds-on favorite missed a few by a close margin and then gave Lunetta all the room she desired.

When the field shot away Irish Dream and Lunetta started off on a merry clip with Gladiator a few lengths rearward. For three quarters they ran in this fashion and then Barrett started to shake up Gladiator.

WINS BY LENGTH

When this barber pole was passed Gladiator flew past Lunetta and sprinted after Irish Dream. The latter turned into the stretch a few jumps ahead. Barrett hit Gladiator a few wallops and the big hoss passed Irish Dream and hustled for the line. The little rider didn't even try to make the finish close. Even when in front he let Gladiator have another taste of the lash and sailed over the line a good length to the good. He ran the mile and a sixteenth in 1:46.

The winner is owned by Arnold Rothstein, who held an informal reception after the conquest of his crimson silks.

PENALTIES GIVEN IN AUTO HEARING

Thomas Cobbs Fined $100 And Costs And Loses License In U.S. Court

As an outcome of an automobile collision in which a Chinese child was killed in the French Concession on the evening of July 29 Mr. Thomas F. Cobbs was convicted yesterday in the United States Consular Court before Commissioner F. J. Schubl on two charges. A fine of $100 and costs was imposed and the defendant's automobile license was suspended for three months.

The case came on for hearing after having been postponed due to Mr. Cobb's absence in Japan. Four charges made against the defendant were—driving on the wrong side of the street, failure to exhibit license when required, driving at an excessive speed and failure to obey police signals. The conviction was found on the two last named charges.

The accident occurred on the corner of Rue Ratard and Rue Roi Albert when a car driven by Mr. Cobbs struck another driven by a Chinese in which eight other Chinese adults and children were riding. One of the Chinese children was knocked out into the street and, according to testimony given, died from injuries received. Mr. E. B. Rose appeared for the defense and Mr. L. K. Kentwell appeared for the Chinese in the case.

M. PAINLEVE IS HONORED BY SHANGHAI OFFICIALS

Commissioner Hsu then proposed the health of the Republic of France as the band of the Defense Commissioner struck up "La Marseillaise."

The former Premier responded gratefully. He was grateful to the Chinese authorities on account of hearty welcome extended to him everywhere he went. He came to represent the French people in sending greetings to the Chinese, he said. These greetings are sincere and not superficial. They are permanent and not temporary.

He was optimistic over the educational progress made by China. A good foundation has been laid he said, so the result would be beneficial. He stated that when he presented his views on China in 1912 when the young republic was inaugurated, French statesmen predicted certain difficulties in view of the vast territory and different classes of people. But they all trusted that the nation would develop itself and these difficulties would merely serve as stimuli for betterment of conditions.

Looking at China superficially M. Painleve asserted, she does not appear to be very progressive. The internal dispute is still on, strikes are frequent. But when we consider the period within which China had attempted her new form of Government, she had done wonderfully.

Europe is geographically smaller than China. There is constant warfare. The Chinese with their 400,000,000 of population had always maintained a reserved attitude. The sudden change of government had taken place only for nine years. Take the nations in Europe, can you find one which can keep herself in peace and order after eight or nine years.

In all his experience, the ex-Premier said, there was one thing which impressed him more than anything else. That was public opinion. Public opinion is extensively recorded in Europe, thus enabling the nations to dispel ignorance and eradicate misunderstandings. It can conquer militarism. In China, this same instrument may be used for the extension of railroads, the development of schools and the frustration of destructive intrigues.

Although the nation is divided the French statesman sees an early union of the people and predicts the vindication of all her minor humiliations. He concluded by expressing his great satisfaction in the efforts of the Chinese industrial magnates in their enterprises in Shanghai.

The health of the Republic of China was then proposed by Mr. Painleve and the Arsenal band played the Chinese national air.

Among the guests present were Dr. C. T. Wang, Chinese envoy to the Versailles Conference, Mr. F. M. Sah, director of government steamships, Mr. Chao Ching-hua, managing-director of the local railways, Mr. Y. M. Chien, manager of the Bank of Communications, Taoyin Wang Keng-ting, Magistrates Shen Pao-chang, Kwang Chun, Chen Chi-shou, and Nieh Chung-hsi, Police Superintendent Hsu Kuo-liang, Mr. David Z. T. Yui, Messrs. S. K. Chen, N. T. Yang, Chu Pao-san, Koo Hsin-yi, Walter H. Chen and Jabin Hsu and Commander De Marguerie, Dr. J. O. Fischer, MM. Fano, Madier, Borel, Auge, Tulasne, Audap, Legendre, Henri Delacrois, Lion, Jasson, L. Reynauld, Grosbois, Laforet, Pernot, Crepin, Knight, Baude, Kremer, Meynard, Premet and Petithuenin and Mr. R. Invitation Extended To Enter Trans-Continental Contest—Conditions Are Stated

Through Dr. Julian Petit, the Aero Club of America has extended an invitation to members of the local Aero Club to become contestants in the National Aeroplane Race transcontinental flight for the Pulitzer Trophy and cash prizes.

The following is a letter Dr. Petit received yesterday containing the invitation:

"The Aero Club of America hereby invites you to become a contestant in the National Aeroplane Race and transcontinental flight for the Pulitzer Trophy and cash prizes, or to make arrangements for one or more aviators to participate in this popular event.

"The flight will be from Hazelhurst Field, Mineola, L.I., N.Y. to Varney Field, San Francisco, Calif. under rules and conditions adopted by the Contest Committee August 2, 1920. It is hoped that your club, city and community will be represented in this contest.

TOURING CONTEST

"The rules and conditions adopted tend to make the race one more in the nature of a touring contest testing the value of the aeroplane for touring and fast work under favorable conditions with a view of placing it in the hands of the people for every variety of service required of it.

"A tentative entry can be made by letter on any form you may select to be followed by a formal entry not later than noon, October 11, 1920."

CONDITIONS GIVEN

Regulations for the flight, which will be held from New York to San Francisco, beginning October 18, are as follows:

1.—The transcontinental flight National Aeroplane Race for the Pulitzer Trophy and cash prizes, from Hazelhurst Field, Mineola, L.I., N.Y., to Varney Field, San Francisco, Cal. is open to all aviators holding the brevet of the Federation Aeronautique Internationale and the annual flying certificate of the Aero Club of America or an affiliated Club of the Federation.

2.—The Aviator wins the Trophy who makes the best average flying time per mile between the two points mentioned in paragraph one and who starts from New York on or after October 18, 1920 and finishes in San Francisco on or before November 20, 1920.

3.—The cash prizes will be awarded to the aviators who make the first, second and third best average flying time per mile between New York and the designated control cities for which these prizes are offered but an aviator can win only one prize between each control.

TIME TAKEN OUT

4.—Time will be taken when the aeroplane starts and stops at the control.

5.—The aviator may select his own date and time of starting on his flight from the controls provided the Contest Committee are advised in season to arrange with their Referees to be present, witness and note the time of starting and stopping at controls.

6.—Distances between controls are to be determined by air-line measurements.

7.—Conditions arising not covered by the above special rules and conditions will come under the general rules of the Club applicable to aeroplane contests.

8.—Entries close at noon October 11, 1920.

9.—It is the intention of the Committee to make the contest one more in the nature of a touring race in which any qualified aviator may participate thereby minimising accidents and yet ascertaining the fastest time which can be made in a flight across the continent and between control cities over a route practically selected by the aviator and under favorable conditions for flying, with a view of advancing aviation in a practical way and one that amateurs and professionals may enjoy in the future as is now done in sane sensible automobiling in all parts of the world.

The Embarrassing Problem of the Young King of Greece and His Peasant Girl Wife

Ex-Queen Sophie, Wife of the Deposed King Constantine, Who Leads the Hostility to Her Son's Peasant Bride.

"The terrible ex-Queen Sophie, sister of the fallen German Kaiser, lost all control of herself when her son asked her to receive his peasant bride and drove her from her presence with an umbrella."

The American Multi-Millionairess, Formerly Mrs. William B. Leeds, Now Aunt by Marriage of King Alexander of Greece and Deeply Involved in His Present Problem.

If Greece Accepts Her, He Will Have a Queen Despised by Europe's Royalties; If His Government Witholds Approval, He Will Have a Legal Wife, but No Queen

PARIS, June 16.

NEVER has a King been placed in a more distressing predicament than young King Alexander of Greece through his romantic marriage to a humbly born, non-royal but beautiful wife of peasant origin—Helen Manos.

The marriage took place secretly in Athens without the consent of the Greek Government or the presence of any representative of that Government. Such consent and representation are necessary by law in order to give any woman marrying the Greek King the rank and position of Queen with all its privileges and dignities. The same formalities are also needed to give any woman marrying into the reigning family the rank of a royal princess. But they are not necessary to make the woman a legal wife.

While the King omitted the formality of obtaining his Government's consent to his marriage, he also made a match repugnant to the ideas of his haughty mother, ex-Queen Sophie of Greece, sister of the fallen German Kaiser, of her husband ex-King Constantine and nearly all the royal caste.

If the Greek Government decides to recognize Alexander's wife as Queen, then he will have a Queen who will be despised by his father and mother and all his royal kinsmen and practically all the royalties of Europe.

If, on the other hand, the Greek Government refuses to accept his wife as Queen, then he will be legally married to a woman who cannot share his rank. The marriage is strictly legal from the Greek point of view and cannot be set aside for any cause whatever, according to the laws of the Greek Orthodox Church, to which both parties belong.

To be estranged from his royal relations—the fate that will befall King Alexander if his plebeian wife is recognized as Queen—would entail no small inconvenience to him. His relationship to the royal families of England, Denmark, Norway and Sweden is one of his best claims to consideration by the Allies, and if he should lose the favor of these families his chances of holding on to the throne would be even worse than they were. It must also cause him no small distress to incur the fierce disapproval of his domineering mother, ex-Queen Sophie, and the somewhat less outspoken censure of his father, ex-King Constantine, and his various brothers and uncles.

But then, his position with a legal wife who is not a queen would appear to be still more painful and embarrassing. According to information furnished by Greek diplomats the King would not have the right to keep his wife in the royal palace at Athens, would not permit her to ride in the royal carriages, automobiles or [illegible] and would be debarred from her natural place at [illegible] other possessions of the reigning house. All these things are paid for and maintained by the Greek Government for the use of the King and the members of the royal family, and the Government would have an undoubted right to say that they should not be used by one who was not royal though legally married.

It is beyond question that if Helen Manos is not legally Queen she cannot share in any of the public ceremonies and social functions which form a large part of the lives of kings and queens. Th customs of monarchy give a king's royal wife a very important place in public affairs, an entirely different place from that which belongs to the wife of a President, who has properly no public position at all.

For instance, we may suppose that the King of England, prompted by the British Government, wished to demonstrate England's friendship for Greece. The very nicest way to do this would be for the King and Queen of England to pay a formal visit to the King of Greece. The English King and Queen would be entertained at a state banquet, and after the meal the King of Greece would, according to custom, drink to "the health of our illustrious guests, the King and Queen of England, and the great British Empire." The King of England in reply would propose the health of the King and Queen of Greece—if there were a Queen—and the great Greek nation. If there were no Queen, the King of England could not drink to her health, although he and everybody else might know that the King of Greece had a perfectly legal wife not far from that spot.

If the King's legal but non-royal wife received such privileges as may be accorded to commoners she might look on pathetically at this banquet from a separate table at the other end of the room, or she might look down from a gallery or peep in through a doorway. Perhaps if she were [illegible] husband's side, she might prefer to absent herself from such ceremonies. In that case it might very well happen that she would find herself in the street, while police and soldiers were keeping the mob back from some interesting ceremony in which her husband was the central figure.

Life for a King with a legal but uncrowned wife would be full of such incongruities. The other kings might find it better not to embarrass him by paying him formal visits, but then that course would tend to injure him by diminishing his public importance.

How embarrassing the King's matrimonial position is at the present moment may be judged from the fact that his wife cannot even live in Greece. She has been living in Paris "incognito" under the name of "Madame Alexandre" since a few weeks after the King's secret marriage seven months ago. She was forced to flee by the notoriety to which she was then subjected and the persecution with which she was threatened. That persecution might very easily have gone to fatal extremes.

The cable dispatches have already told you how King Alexander came to Paris his policies at a critical moment of national existence. A tremendous agitation has been started in Greece against the King's wife by members of King Constantine's old pro-German party, most of them army officers, who pretend that she is the tool of a group that is trying to gain control of the kingdom. As a matter of fact, her enemies are merely using the prejudices they can excite against her to further their own nefarious schemes. Before this appears the problem may have been solved violently.

Young King Alexander of Greece, While on His Runaway Honeymoon in Paris, with His Peasant Bride Helen Manos, Who Dare Not Stay in Greece for Fear of Exciting a Revolution.

King Alexander greeted his beautiful young bride in Paris as if he were an ordinary loving newly-wed husband and as if royal marriage laws and international politics had never entered his mind. She is a very lovely and attractive young woman with an exquisitely graceful, slim, girlish figure. Many persons have described her as a reincarnation of an ancient Greek goddess.

The young couple have been seen walking arm in arm about the boulevards of Paris and lunching together simply in the restaurants without any attendants. The King is an exceptionally stalwart and ath- [illegible] his [illegible] seen [illegible] s of [illegible] was [illegible] American public.

King Alexander left Greece with the approval of Prime Minister Eleutherios Venizelos, who wished time in order to decide whether it would be possible to recognize Helen Manos as Queen of Greece. The Prime Minister is a liberal and humane man and personally he would doubtless be pleased to recognize the lovely, humbly born girl as queen. But he cannot run the risk of a revolution or the defeat of all that could be expected of the most ardent honeymooning couple.

So thoroughly was the King carried away by love's young dream that he felt that his truculent mother could not resist the charm of his young bride. He determined to make a surprise visit to her with the guileless expectation that she would take her lovely daughter-in-law to her arms. Accompanied by his wife he travelled secretly to Switzerland and hurried to the beautiful villa occupied by ex-Queen Sophie and ex-King Constantine.

King Alexander was naturally admitted to the house without question, and he silenced any objections to his wife's presence. What followed has been revealed by a member of Constantine's household.

Ex-Queen Sophie advanced to meet her son with a sour expression, for his conduct had already angered her. After a few affectionate greetings and inquiries by the King he hastened to the object of his visit by saying:

"Mother, let me present my wife—your new daughter—to you. She loves you and wishes to assure you of her deep respect and affection."

"What!" shrieked the terrible Sophie to the trembling girl. "You base-born child of a clodhopper! You shameless minx. You have stolen my son and turned him against me! You have seduced and fooled him for your own low and selfish purposes and to help the scoundrels who are in league with you! And now you have the audacity to enter my house! Leave my presence at once—both of you—and never dare to come near me again."

"But, mother," urged the young King, "do not let your prejudices blind you. Times have changed, and Helen is the best wife I can have now. I shall be the first Greek King with a Greek wife. We shall be popular, and our family will recover from our recent terrible difficulties."

The young wife, encouraged by her husband's attitude, bravely stood her ground. Seeing this, ex-Queen Sophie became enraged beyond control.

"Low-born creature," she yelled. "You dare to face me when I order you to go. If I were on the throne I would order you stripped and flogged. But now I must take the law in my own hands."

Ex-Queen Sophie seized a long-handled umbrella and aimed a furious blow at her daughter-in-law's head. The King's stalwart right arm partly stopped the blow, but it pushed the girl's hat sideways.

The young couple then hastened from the villa, cruelly humiliated and disillusioned.

King Alexander fell in love with Helen Manos several years before he unexpectedly acquired the throne. Her family live near Saloniki. A marriage in Greece was out of the question for him, as long as Queen Sophie and Constantine were on the throne. When the Allies decided to dethrone these two for their pro-Germanism in 1917 it became a great problem to determine the future government of Greece.

After much discussion it was decided to place Alexander, Constantine's second son, on the throne. He was popular with the Greeks and enjoyed the esteem of the victorious statesman, Venizelos. His older brother, Crown Prince George, was discarded because he had become identified with the policies of his father and mother.

One of King Alexander's earliest uses of his comparative freedom was to realize his dream—to marry Helen Manos. The ceremony, though partially secret, was in every way honorable and legal. It was celebrated by three well-known priests in a house belonging to a friend of the King in Athens. Several friends of the King and his bride were present.

At least one distinguished American is deeply concerned in the King's romance. That is the beautiful American society woman, formerly Mrs. William B. Leeds, who recently married the King's youngest uncle, Prince Christopher of Greece.

It will be recalled that Mrs. Leeds's marriage took place recently in Switzerland in spite of the violent opposition of ex-Queen Sophie, who is the sister-in-law of Prince Christopher.

The American woman's status as a member of the royal caste is at present in doubt, as high authorities assert that because the Greek Government was not represented at her wedding she cannot rank as a royal princess of Greece. The beautiful American is now using her tact and her many millions in having this matter settled to her satisfaction.

Those who know the American Princess say that she is not pleased that the titular head of her husband's family should marry a girl of no rank. This marriage detracted from the importance of the American's own position and made her a relation of peasants, and although some of the royal family were trying to keep her from enjoying royal rank, she was not disposed to help an obscure, uncultivated girl to occupy a throne. In this connection it should be recalled that Mrs. Leeds made extraordinary efforts to placate the aggressive ex-Queen in spite of her unfriendly attitude. The American wishes to be a princess with the approval of the entire royal caste of Europe.

Many circumstances, in fact, appear to complicate the cruelly embarrassing position of the idealistic young monarch and his lovely bride, the first commoner who has married a king in modern times.

Labor And The League

NEWS despatches from the United States carry alarming reports of an industrial and economic situation that grows constantly more aggravating, and increasingly remote from those adjustments that have been promised ever since the signing of the armistice. Hardly a day passes without a report of new manifestations of labor unrest; the latest "strike" news being the most disquieting of all, since it relates to the tie-up of shipping activities along the Atlantic seaboard.

These reports, of course, are disturbing to American business firms in the Orient, since any impediment to the flow of outwardbound cargoes reacts, sooner or later, upon American trade in foreign lands, China included.

What is the cause of it all, and when will it end?

Any analysis of the situation leads inevitably to the conclusion that the causes are political, and that they are largely if not wholly due to the failure, amounting almost to complete bankruptcy, of the present Republican Congress. This is said without the slightest desire to make political capital out of a situation that is distressing enough as it is, but rather with the hope that a real understanding of the economic evils that have developed from past mistakes may be a beacon to help us avoid such errors in the future.

In the autumn of 1918 the American voters were told, or rather it was screamed at them by every Republican spellbinder and every Republican newspaper that the only hope of recovery from what they described as the wreckage piled up by the Wilson administration lay in the substitution of a Republican Congress for the Democratic legislature then sitting at Washington.

The voters, reduced to a state of semi-consciousness by these dense clouds of asphyxiating political gas, acquiesced to the irrational demand of the Republican leaders that horses should be swapped in the middle of the stream, which even then had risen to torrential heights as the result of the inflow of currents from the war.

Confronted by a great responsibility and by a still greater opportunity what did the new Republican Congress do? Did this Congress attack a single one of those "domestic problems" which the Republican leaders assured us would be disposed of forthwith if the voters would turn out the "blundering and incompetent Democrats who had made a mess of the job of running the government?"

It did not. Instead, the new Republican Congress devoted itself almost exclusively to the task of discrediting the Versailles Peace Treaty and the Covenant of the League of Nations as brought home by President Wilson. All this Republican Congress did in the whole term of its existence was, first, to create a straw man, and second, to spend weary month after weary month in an attack on this harmless foeman of their own fevered imagination, employing in that furious but misdirected fight an ocean of energy which, if properly used, would have gone far toward the reduction of those ever increasing obstacles to domestic peace.

However, that's all over and done with, and now the big question is: When will our domestic difficulties end?

An answer to this question hinges to a large extent upon the antecedents of these difficulties, and to an understanding of the things that are necessary to be done before we can hope for any lessening of the internal travail at home.

A great many writers upon the subject attempt to dispose of the labor unrest by attributing it to a suddenly acquired insanity on the part of labor, both organised and unorganised; but that is neither a correct diagnosis of the trouble nor fair to the men who earn their living by their daily toil.

The labor unrest is due, almost wholly, to the profiteering that has run riot in the United States, as in other countries of the world, practically from the day the first gun was fired in Belgium in the bloody August that inaugurated the World War. Working men are only human and it is unfair to them to say that it is their inordinate greed that is at the base of all our present trouble, for that is not true.

Being human, how could it be expected of the toilers to read in the daily newspapers of war profits running into the billions; of ships which in two or three crossings returned to their owners the cost of their construction; of speeches like the undisputed one by Representative Rainey in the Lower House of Congress that the war created twenty-three thousand new American millionaires; of annual statements of big American corporations showing profits swollen all out of reason—how, it may be asked, could it be expected that the workers should read of these things, and of a hundred and one other evidences of wholesale profiteering without themselves asking: where do we come in? And being human, how could it be expected of them that they should be asked to pay anywhere from two to five times the amounts formerly asked for the necessities of life without demanding higher wages with which to meet the constantly ascending costs of living?

The profiteers, in their turn, have offered and continue to offer the lame excuse that the rising costs of labor made and make it necessary to boost the prices on the commodities they manufacture and sell, but the evidence against them is both overwhelming and convincing. The United States Bureau of Commerce has repeatedly shown that the prices of commodities always have risen in advance of the increases in the returns to labor. Every economist and student of business conditions in America who has contributed to the voluminous reports and essays on this subject bears the same testimony.

In the spring of this year the New York World, by way of answering the contentions of the profiteers that labor costs were to blame for their own ascending quotations, printed a number of annual statements of representative American companies, and nothing could have shown more clearly than these statements that the blame for the present unrest lies almost wholly with the profiteers. Among these reports was one issued by the largest collar manufacturer in the United States, located at Troy, New York. The World proved, by reference to the annual statements of this company for the three years immediately preceding the war that its annual profits, on an investment of five million dollars, averaged between six and seven percent. That was in the days when we used to be able to buy two good linen collars for twenty-five cents.

For the four subsequent years this same company, on the same capitalisation, paid dividends averaging thirty-seven percent after an annual "reserve fund" of two million dollars had been put aside, presumably to keep the profit showing as low as possible. And it was during these years that the haberdashers soft soaped us, every time we bought a collar, with the usual line of slush about increased labor costs making it necessary to charge more for the collars.

Every day for week after week the World printed one of these annual statements, each absolutely damning in its testimony to the greed of the profiteering outfit that issued it.

So it isn't all insanity on the part of labor, although there is no denying that labor, in its turn, took advantage of the situation to the fullest possible extent. But labor, on occasion, has shown something of a disposition to be reasonable, as was the case last year when President Wilson asked the railroad men to postpone their demand for increased pay until he could take action which he hoped would result in lowering the costs of living. Against this it may be asked if the profiteers have ever been equally open minded to the thousands of appeals that have been addressed to them, a query that can be answered with an emphatic negative.

Between these two conflicting forces, the profiteering employers on the one hand and the profiteering workers on the other, there is just one authority that can approach with full power to act, and that is: the Congress of the United States.

Both political parties are eager to undertake that difficult job, and the people, at the forthcoming election, must decide which one of the parties is most likely to make good on the promises so eagerly proffered now.

It is earnestly to be hoped that if Harding is elected he will have a Republican Congress to work with him, and that if Cox is elected he will have a Democratic Congress at his back. The paramount issue is that of the League of Nations. If Wilson had had a Democratic Congress to work with when he got back from Paris, the Peace Treaty and the League Covenant would have been ratified promptly and the League thus would have been placed in a much more powerful position than it is in today.

The unstable conditions that have developed in Europe would have been avoided, at least to a large extent; there would have been no war between Poland and the Bolshevists and the capital-labor question with which Europe is struggling and reverberations of which are increasingly felt in the United States, would have been dealt with under saner and more stablished conditions. Not only is the situation in Europe complicated by America's failures to ratify but conditions in the United States itself are adversely affected. Decisive action by America on the League of Nations issue is the imperative demand of the day for the sake of betterment both at home and abroad.

Appeals For Help On Boy And Girl Problem Come From Many

By Dr. Wm. A. McKeever
(Professor in the University of Kansas, Author of "Teaching the Boy to Save," "Teaching the Girl to Save")

From all parts of the country there are coming to me numerous appeals for help in outlining programs for the survey and management of the local boy or girl problems, and I shall now try to reply to these through my articles.

First, permit me to urge all interested committees to consider the whole boy and the whole girl and not merely a part. I can do little to help with the play problem, unless you allow me to connect it with the work problem. I can help only incidentally with these unless you consider their relations to the social problem and the religious problem.

Your active interest in the young must square with the entire juvenile society and with human society in general. Let us cease to waste our time temporising and give more thought to the idea of making every boy and every girl wholesomely, happily human.

Now, to make your effort most lasting and effective, consider your young proteges in relation to the outline of the four great world-wide human interests given in the outline below. Try to provide that everyone has a full, seasonable human share in some aspect of each of the four age-old instincts or racial interests. Then you may expect to succeed.

I.—Play and Athletics.

Play and play apparatus on school grounds; athletics, opportunities and equipment: scouting, hikes and camps, and vacation play and playgrounds.

II.—Work and Industrial Discipline.

Study and preparation of lessons; manual industry at school; home tasks and duties: industrial employment of ages 14 to 18, and vacation employment and industry.

III.—Sociability and Social Opportunities.

Club centers in schools and churches: club centers on the street; high school programs and parties: house parties and socials; public dances and other affairs, and theaters and motion pictures.

IV.—Religion and Church Activities.

Sunday school advantages and attendance; access to church young people's societies; Y.M.C.A. opportunities and work; opportunities for missionary service.

NOTES ABOUT HUSBANDS

Most women have husbands today and those who have not are saving up to buy one.

No woman ought to have a husband until she can properly afford to keep one. Husbands are very useful things to have about the house. They have to touch the cash register and smile. This is so difficult in these times when you have to reach round a seven by four family with a two by three income, that very few husbands ever live any longer than is absolutely necessary.

Husbands, in their wild state hide in out of the way burrows—and incidentally borrow. These burrows are called by different names. In some stages of society they arae called pubs, in others they are known as clubs and there is an extinct burrow, once located in the U.S.A. known as a saloon. These burrows, or hiding places, or to use the Latin—trachia debauches—meaning tonsil varnishing departments, can generally be found with the help of a needy friend.

Husbands will eat anything, and will often live on the leavings of a small family. Besides, there is always the piece of cheese in the mouse trap to fall back upon.

THE OLD SALT

From early youth I ploughed the restless Main,
My mind as restless and as apt to change;
Through every clime and ocean did I range,
In hope at length a competence to gain;
For poor to sea I went, and poor I still remain.
Year after year I strove but strove in vain.
And hardships manifold did I endure,
For fortune on me never deigned to smile;
Yet I at last a resting place have found,
With just enough life's comforts to procure,
In a snug cove, in this our favored isle,
A peaceful spot where Nature's gifts abound;
Then sure I have no reason to complain,
Though poor to sea I went, and poor I still remain.

TIT FOR TAT

Having been singing in the gloaming for some time without getting a hand, a big mosquito alighted on the fat man's neck, and jabbed his stinger into the soft, palpitating flesh. "Pardon me if I bore you," he said.

With a well directed slap the man retaliated, remarking casually, "How does that strike you?"

DON'T ROCK THE BOAT

"Say, be careful. These canoes tip over very easily."

"Would it be safe," began the timid girl, "to—to—"

"Yes?"

To shift my bit of Spearmint to the other side of my mouth?"

SLIM PLOT

"Mary's Ankle" is the title of a comedy George B. McLellan has just produced. Seems rather a slender subject for a play.

NOTHING WORTH WHILE WITHOUT CHANGE

"If you are a slave, to customs you will always be a slave."

Ponder this for a while.

Have you changed your ways since you first learned to do some particular thing or a certain way to perform a duty?

Which is it? Are you too set in your way or too lazy to learn a new way?

You complain that the other fellow is getting along while you trudge in the same channel continually.

In the past you have called fellows fools who took up work to which they were unaccustomed, because they believed they would contain important plans for organisation and propaganda.

Today most of those same fellows are worth more than you are and seem to have brighter prospects.

Who is the fool today?

As long as you balance the work which is easiest for you and which provides you the most leisure, against the job which calls for hard study and hard work, how can you expect to make worth-while advancement?

Hard work gains success, and no other way achieves it.

Germany Can Pay By Herbert Kaufman

Germany can pay all that she owes in reparation, declares Mr. Kaufman, editor of McClure's Magazine, who has made a study of her present condition.

In the important article printed below he urges that Germany should be made to pay promptly, for she is busily engaged in putting into bricks and steel, concrete and mortar, to make herself efficient, funds that Britain, France, and Belgium must have to be competent, comfortable, habitable Commonwealths again.

If Germany is threatened by Bolshevism and despair, the ominous signs were signally lacking in the region from which I have just returned.

If Germany is incapable of preserving law and order without the maintenance of great bodies of armed men, the disaffected multitudes offered as excuse for a gradual reduction of military forces are concentrated beyond the area of my observations.

While Germany's envoys have been bickering, dickering, finessing, haggling, and playing for time across the border, the people are making roads, repairing telegraph and telephone systems, building houses, pushing production, and cultivating every inch of arable ground with an intensity that betokens unbroken moral and undeterred resolve.

Given many more months of grace and the shrewd Teuton will have much of his indemnity money securely and irreparably invested in concrete houses, highways, rails, and ballast.

The milliards for which the Supreme Council is ineffectually reaching lie heaped along the roadside ready for eager shovels. They are being transmitted into mortar and moulded into bricks. I speak only for the section I have personally visited, but if the rest of the Empire is as well ordered and industrious, if the remaining population is carrying on with equal fervor, German skill and German will can cope with the very reasonable debt owed to justice and the victims of her megalomania.

Germany is suffering from shortages, but so is all civilisation. The mark has woefully depreciated, but not beyond the recuperative capacity of such an efficient people.

Meat is expensive in Germany, but not intrinsically dearer than in many other lands.

BETTER FED THAN ITALY

There is no linen. Fats are still scarce, soap is costly, fabrics of all sorts in limited supply, but German bones are still well upholstered and the common fare is more varied and nutritious than Italy's or Japan's. Sundays and holidays are marked by throngs of picnickers, by-lanes are crowded with bicycles and pleasure-carts. Horses are numerous and, if anything, far too plump.

If defeat and the penalities imposed by the Allies have secured the German character and offered a fertile surface for Bolshevism, the German has suddenly become past-master in the art of dissimulation, and these are the merriest lot of Anarchists I have ever met.

Folk generally are not well dressed—they never have been. Shoes are not smart—German footgear never was—but if boots are clumsy they are sound and efficient, and thus far neither sabot nor clogs seem necessary, even for the farmers.

The loudly bewailed lack of fuel has not yet afflicted the vast southern forests. The slopes of the Schwarzwald seem as thickly timbered as ever, and every little copse is as trim as a public park. There may be a lack of metal, but it is not apparent on the telegraph poles. Germany has metal enough and money enough to keep her communications in pre-war condition, which is more than can be said of America or France or England.

As for necessities, the beer is unspeakable—but so is that of England.

One may fill an ordinary need at the chemists.' Chocolates and bonbons of fair quality can be had at every turn. The bread is very poor, but it suffices, and I have eaten worse at home.

BEST MEAL IN EUROPE

The best meal I have had in Europe was at the Hotel Stephanic, in Baden-Baden. For a dinner (two persons) comprising cocktails of orange-juice with English gin and a dash of absinth a perfect consomme, a young Rhine salmon with Mayonnaise, such as neither London or Paris provides, hors d'oeuvres, steaks of infinite tenderness, with marrow and Bordelaise sauce, new peas new potatoes, bread and butter, a bottle of Himmelreich Gracher and the best Java coffee, together with the chauffeur's food and drinks (including a 15 percent tax), I paid exactly 372 marks (or £2 9s. at the present rate of exchange). And this, mind you, at a hotel which even the manager of the famed Crillon acknowledges to be the best on the Continent.

The recent Maitre d'hotel of the Hotel Chatham, Paris, one of the head waiters of the Carlton and a former chef de service of the Blackstone Hotel, Chicago, approached my table at intervals and renewed acquaintance, but none of the three attempted in the least to propagandise, except by expressing the hope that America would soon interest itself in furnishing milk and better flour for the younger children who, they assured me, were sadly in need of both.

They were excellently dressed, robust, evidently contented, and hinted that I would soon find them back at their old posts.

Nowhere did I encounter any appreciation of the outer world's attitude toward the German. They feel certain, that once the details of settlement have been arranged, we shall severally welcome them back to the fold and afford them all past opportunities to prosper in our midst.

But there is no servility, no cringing, a strange dignity rather, and well-measured courtesy as befits a people satisfied as to their status and worth.

NO REGRETS

In Karlsruhe I spent several hours at police headquarters inquiring for an American friend who had married a professor in the technical high school there, and while a search was being made through the records had ample opportunity for conversation with the officials. They expressed no regrets over Germany's position, and in no wise endeavored to win my sympathy. In the course of the afternoon, several prisoners were brought in and ordered to find work, it being explained to me that idlers are no longer permitted. The headquarters' telephone operator asserted that the morale throughout in that section is all that could be desired, and that infractions of law and order are well within the normal.

While Germany's heavy mortality is proclaimed by crowded graveyards there are an astonishing number of sound hearty young fellows about—about as well dressed and good humored as one usually saw before 1914.

One reads of weak governments and potential revolutions, but there are no obtruding signs of mismanagement or national dissatisfaction. To me Germany appeared alive, vital and prosperous—neither repentant nor regretful.

I speak only for such parts as I have seen; I knew the old Germany, and there is little about the new that is manifestly different.

My personal opinion is that she can pay her obligations without undue difficulty. My hope is that she will be made to pay in full. Defeat has not broken her spirit, and I do not think it has altered her character.

DANGER OF DALLYING

Revenge is not written in the amount demanded for reparation, and reparation will be scantily served even by the full amount. If any nation in Europe must put up with hardships and inefficiencies, Germany deserves to be that power. But Germany is rapidly seeking herself efficient with the funds that France and England and Belgium must have to be competent, comfortable, habitable commonwealths again.

If the Allies permit much further dallying, they will find the money they seek planted in the fields, sealed in walls, nailed to railroad sleepers, stretched on poles, cannily invested beyond reclamation in the wherewithals to reconquer world trade—and possibly more.

On the other hand, Austria cannot possibly meet the terms imposed upon her. She has no important remaining resources except her timber lands and the doubtful energy of her subjects. Such agricultural domain as is left to her will not suffice to feed the cities—she is practically without fuel, her water power is undeveloped, her factories are silent or just barely operating.

The Baby Problem

The baby problem is the most universal of all problems.

Affairs of state, of business, of society, of morals, all in the last analysis simmer down to the question of raising babies and properly training them.

Nature has provided that each new generation shall be held for a few years in the lap of the old so that the growth of the race may be continuous and progressive. The bee, the beaver and the fish all begin just where their fathers began; there is no progress, or at best an exceedingly slow, elemental, evolutionary progress. But the boy when he begins stands on his father's shoulders. The new human being starts where the preceding left off.

In our dealings with children we should bear in mind that they are not yet human beings, they are only in the formative process of becoming human beings.

"A baby," writes Dr. Evans, "is an egotistic parasite." He is a little animal, learning to acquire a mind and a soul. He is not moral, he is not immoral; he has not yet reached the place where he can be either one.

It is therefore not only wrong to punish a child; it is worse; it is foolish. He is merely a bundle of instincts. He is not responsible for his acts; the human race is responsible. It is as absurd to slap him as it would be to slap the Bartholdi statue for the sins of the Senate.

All you can do for him is to give him right environment. He develops through imitation. All his bad words and naughty deeds, his disagreeable as well as his agreeable conduct, are mere imitations, when they are not outcroppings of inborn tendencies.

Be polite to him, surround him with an atmosphere of gentleness and good breeding, and he will fall into that way. What you say to him, what you teach him, what you punish him or reward him for, makes little matter; what matters is what you do before him and to him.

It is in his early baby years that the subtle and profound character is given to his speech. It is then he gets his nasal twang if he is surrounded by Middle Westerners, drops his his r's if he be in the South, gets the Cockney twang if he is brought up in certain parts of London, acquires an unbearable habit of talking through his nose if he be French, or in his throat if he be German.

This is true also of deeper matters than speech. It is in his baby, imitative years that there is laid in his subconsciousness those fundamentals of character we call principles. It is there he forms his notions of moral obligation, respect for law, courtesy, cheerfulness, reverence and the like. He may wing away from them in later years, but he usually comes back to them. They are the most stable qualities of his life.

The training of children, then, amounts to our own self-discipline. In reality we cannot train children, that is, by conscious acts of our will. The child is a constant challenge to our intelligent self-control. The reason why child-training is the most difficult business in the world is that at bottom it is not our disposing of his life, which would be a simple thing enough, for it is always easy to regulate others, but it is disciplining of ourselves, the bringing of ourselves into the control of our highest intelligence and convictions.

Before every one else you can act a part, with the child you must be genuine. His eyes pierce all disguises. In business, in social life, in preaching, teaching and argument with grown people, it is what you do and say that counts; it is nobody's business what you are.

When you buy of a grocer you don't care whether he abuses his family, or not, and when you go to a bank it is a subject of entire indifference to you whether the banker be a pessimist or an egotist. But when you do business with a child there is but one thing you can impart to him, it is your real character.

It is thus that the child is the most tremendous moral force in the world; for he is the one personality for whom we must be honest and true; he is the greatest of all detectives of hypocrisy, and our very love and care for him, strongest of natural instincts, drive us to decency.

Curious Questions Of Science Answered—Distances Between Meridians, Temperature At Poles And Boston's Pudding Stone Interesting Studies For Amateurs

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS

(Eminent Astronomer and Authority on Subjects of Scientific Interest)

"If a perfect sphere were placed on a perfect plane would the sphere remain stationary? If not why not?—R. R. T. and S. S. S."

For the sake of completeness you should add the condition that both sphere and plane are perfectly rigid and perfectly homogeneous throughout. Then the contact would be a point of infinitesimal magnitude and the sphere would be gravitationally balanced upon that point.

This implies that the gravitative force is exerted perfectly normal to the plane or that the plane is perfectly at right angles to the direction of the force—otherwise the sphere would roll.

If any outside force were exerted upon it, as, for instance, the attraction of the moon, or that of the sun, or even in the perfect case we are supposing, so immeasurably slight a force as the attraction of a star trillions of miles away, the sphere would move. The slightest movement of the earth's crust would upset it, as would the wash of the most insignificant atmospheric wave or the unequal distortion caused by the solar radiation striking the sphere on one side only, or any electric or magnetic action, or any other of a multitude of imaginable sources of disturbance of the sphere's equilibrium.

In a word, the absolute perfection of shape, poise, homogeneity, balance of contending forces, etc. required to render the sphere truly motionless would be beyond the conditions of nature as known to of controllable by us. The sphere would be at the very limit of stability.

MERIDIAN DISTANCES

"Is there any way (or any rule that can be remembered) to determine the distances between the principal meridians at any given latitude?—T. P., Chicago."

What you are after is the varying length of a degree of longitude, which shortens as one goes from the equator toward the poles. The cause of the shortening is best comprehended by glancing at a school globe, where the eye perceives it once how the meridians converge toward, and finally meet at the poles.

There is a very simple rule by which the length of a degree of longitude in any given latitude can be calculated. To begin with, the length of a degree on the equator is about 69.14 miles. To find the length of a degree on the equator north or south of the equator it is only necessary to multiply 69.14 by the cosine of the angle expressing the latitude. Suppose the latitude is 42 degrees (about that of Chicago). The cosine of 42 degrees, as given in a table of since and cosines (which everybody ought to use as familiarly as a dictionary—and it is just as easy), is the decimal. .7431. Multiplying 69.14 by .7431 we get 51.378 miles, or about 512/5 miles for the length of a degree of longitude at Chicago. This calculation supposes the earth a perfect sphere, but such supposition introduces no important error for ordinary purposes.

TEMPERATURE AT POLES

"'A' claims that the north pole is colder than the south pole; 'B' claims the opposite, and 'C' claims that they are the same. Who is right?"

"B" is probably right, taking the whole year round, but the question cannot be answered, at least not yet, by definite experimental evidence. The experiences of explorers do not settle it because their temperature measures are not taken under absolutely comparable conditions, to say nothing of the variability of all meterological elements. But the greater elevation of the earth's surface above mean sea level at the south pole (the north pole lies beneath the sea), implies a lower temperature, and in addition, the south Polar accumulation of perpetual snow and ice is greater than the corresponding accumulation around the north pole.

This may be a consequence of the greater distance of the earth from the sun during the Southern Winter, and the resulting greater relative length of that Winter. In the northern hemisphere the Winter half of the year is shorter than the Summer half, because the earth, being nearer the sun during the Northern Winter, travels faster in its orbit, while the reverse is the case in the southern hemisphere.

But this is only a temporary advantage enjoyed by the northern hemisphere, for we know that the precession of the equinoxes, combined with another periodical variation, will, in about 10,500 years, reverse the position of the northern and southern hemispheres with regard to the aphelion and perihelion (far from sun and near to sun) points of the earth's orbit, and then we instead of the people south of the equator will have Winter when the earth is farthest from the sun.

This alternation of conditions between the two hemispheres must have occurred many times in past ages, but since its total period is 21,000 years, human affairs undergo fundamental revolutions and pass through long intervals of forgetfulness during a single swing of the mighty pendulum.

BOSTON'S PUDDING STONE

A lady who writes from the Bournewood Hospital, Brookline, Mass., expresses her curiosity concerning "the great quantities of rock called by the residents pudding stone, which she finds in that neighborhood.

She says the theory of these deposits is that they were carried there by the glaciers in the glacial period, but she doubts that explanation and thinks, because the mass in whuch the rounded stones (pudding stones) are embedded resembles dark, solidified mud, while the stones themselves "seem to belong to the sea"; that the cause of the phenomenon may have been a great upheaval ages ago around the present site of Boston harbor. She says that a friend of hers, on seeing the curious rocks, "remarked jokingly that a part of the ocean bed of a destroyed planet had dropped there."

I have often wondered why women do not show a more general interest in the earth's autobiography. Whatever the cause may be, geology has had no Mary Somerville or Maria Mitchell. And yet its story is one of the most romantic that science has to tell. The objects that it studies are continually before everybody's eyes and under everybody's feet, and what can be more picturesque than geology's domain, with its rocky shores, precipitous ravines, high, breezy hills, towering mountains, rocking stones, moss-covered boulders and precipices whose faces stometimes resemble the edge of an age-stained book, whose every leaf contains a narrative of things that were long before man was?

I see this lady strolling from the hospital doors in search of nature's tonic, and finding it, as an inquisitive mind is sure to do, in those exhaustless aspects of the outer world which were not created for us but before us, their origins antedating the oldest human tradition by millions of years, and leading the imagination back, aeon beyond aeon, to the time when the earth was a starry spark shot from the "dynamic encounter" of ancient suns. It is pleasure in fancy to stroll with her, and talk about the strange conglomerates that "the residents call pudding-stone," and to show her that in addition to her own notion that the convulsive earth, in the ancient days when Boston was perhaps a volcanic center, upheaved the ocean bed there, and the theory which she has heard, or read, but does not believe, that the glaciers brought these deposits from afar, there is a third explanation of the origin of pudding-stone which lies back of the others, and must include them both, since it is more general in its data.

CONSOLIDATION OF GRAVEL

This explanation is simply that conglomerate, or pudding-stone, is consolidated gravel (using the word gravel in the widest sense), and that it is a typical shore formation, originating in shallow water, near land. The stones embedded in the matrix consist usually of some form of quartz or quartzite rock, but may also consist of limestone.

They have been rounded by rolling and grinding in water, and consequently the rocks of which they formerly constituted a part must have antedated the formation of the pudding-stone by long periods of time. And yet the conglomerate or pudding stone itself is immensely old in most cases.
